

20.1: A model for Friction:

$F \leq \mu R$

where F is the frictional force, R is the normal reaction force, and μ is the coefficient of friction between an object & the surface.

If the object is sliding / on the point of sliding: $F = \mu R$ (limiting equilibrium).

Friction opposes the direction of sliding or the way the object should slide.